1. Rumors have been current in Lima that many individuals were arrested for "Bustamantista" plotting, but sources have been able to confirm the detention of only two persons. These two were Benjamin Rocca Huella and Carlos Montero Bernaldes. A very strong "recommendation" was made to Fernando Wiese to leave the country as soon as possible.
2. Two leading younger members of the Movimiento Popular Democratico, Manuel Ulloa, son of Senator Alberto Ulloa, and Manuel Salmon, formerly a ghost writer of ex-president Bustamante, have denied to close friends that there were any grounds for arrest. Both added, however, that "since they are picking us up anyway, we might as well plot."
